A-to-Be Fueling™

••••• All information included in this document is subject to change as the product evolves

Modern fuel stations have grown to accept a multitude of payment methods, from cash to cards, whether issued by banks or themselves.

Another unique aspect for fueling service is that cars are a part of it, an important one. And most of them have grown attached to a tiny thing on their windshield – in some countries these are referred as «ID», others as «tags», «OBU» (On-Board units). No matter how they're called, they have been used for tolling, mostly.

People choose them to avoid stopping and losing time, to stop worrying about cash and change, to gain peace of mind. It seems only natural other services today start claiming this very same comfort and level of dedication on their clients' benefit.

A-to-Be® offers this – peace of mind, while you fuel your car. It relies on secure transaction clearance to add confidence to this relation, between you and your fuel station company. No cards, no cash, a single bill.

Benefits

Improved personal security, without using cash nor payment cards.

A unique and individual client perspective for the company.
